RE: Tennessee Income Tax for Year(s): 2009

Dear Taxpayer:

The State of Tennessee imposes a tax (commonly referred to as the Hall income tax) on certain types of dividend and interest income. According to information furnished by the Internal Revenue Service, ⁽¹⁾ it appears that you may have received taxable interest and/or dividend income during the year(s) listed above. However, according to the department's records, and income tax return was not submitted for these year(s).

Please provide one of the following for each of these year(s) - 2009

1. Copies of Schedules B and D from your federal form 1040, or
2. A completed copy of the enclosed Tennessee Hall income tax return, or
3. A completed copy of the enclosed Information Request Form.

Also, if you received any income from a brokerage company, please provide a copy of your year-end statement or a detailed breakdown of the income by source (i.e., money market, mutual fund, CD, etc.) as well as any other information that you deem to be appropriate.

The enclosed income tax return instructions explain who is liable for the Tennessee income tax and what types of income are taxable or nontaxable. Additional information and forms may be found on our website at: www.tn.gov/revenue.

Please return the required information in the enclosed envelope within thirty (30) days from the date of this letter.

Your timely compliance is appreciated.

For assistance of information, call (615) 532-6439.
